ABSTRACT

The Acquisitions List of demographic books and articles is issued every two months by the Katherine Dexter-McCormick Library. Divided into two parts, the first contains a list of books most recently acquired by the Library, each one annotated and also marked with the Library call number. The second part consists of a list of annotated articles, classified according to the Planned Parenthood-World Population (PPWP) Coding System, which have been selected from the 150 scientific and professional journals received by the Library. The purpose of the list is to assist PPWP Affiliates and other organizations in easily arranging their informational materials in a systematic scheme. A form for ordering xeroxed copies of articles is included. (BL)

Acquisitions List No. 41
January 1972

The Acquisitions List, issued every two months, is divided into two sections as follows:

Part I: a list of the books most recently acquired by the Library, each one annotated, and also marked with its Library call number, to aid libraries which use the Library's classification system.

Part II: a list of annotated articles, selected from the 150 scientific and professional journals the Library receives, and classified according to the Library's FAMILY PLANNING CLASSIFICATION.

The purpose of the Acquisitions List is to assist PPWP Affiliates and other organizations in easily arranging their informational materials, both book and non-book, in a systematic scheme so that the information contained therein can be gotten at handily when needed.

For the convenience of those who want to order Xeroxed copies of the articles in the Monthly Acquisition List of the Katharine Dexter Mc-Cormick Library an order blank is now provided on the last pages of the List. Please use when ordering.

To reimburse the Library for the cost of Keroxing, please include the payment of 10¢ a page. You can figure the total cost from the number of pages of each article, which is given on Order Page.

Books must be ordered from publishers; addresses provided at end of book list.

CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR AND CONTRACTOR CONTRAC

BIRTH CONTROL: METHODS

0rals

2.11 PRESTON, S.N.

The oral contraceptive controversy

American Journal of Obstetrics & Gynecology 3/7: 994-1007, Dec. 1, 1971

Summarizes the available data regarding the efficacy and safety of oral contraceptives and presents known risks in their proper perspective. * (#290)

Orals - Side Effects (Metabolic & Other Changes)

2.11.13 MUELLER, Helmut and SCHROGIE, John J.

Report of a workshop: Interaction between oral contraceptives and essential dietary nutrients
Contraception 4/4: 223-227, October 1971

Present knowledge of metabolic abnormalities in oral contraceptive users does not warrant a recommendation for large-scale dietary supplementation at the present time. However, it was recommended that the problem be investigated comprehensively, with emphasis on nutrition surveys, to determine the prevalence and incidence of these effects in larger populations as well as on studies in animal models to improve understanding of the effects observed (#291)

2.11.13 SHOJANIA, A. Majid, et al

The effect of oral contraceptives on folate metabolismm

American Journal of Obstetrics & Gynecology 3/6: 782-791, Nov. 15, 1971

Study of the effect of oral contraceptives on folate metabolism, in order to test the hypothesis that folate deficiency of pregnant women may be partly due to impairment of folate metabolism.

(#292)

Orals - Side Effects (Cerebrovascular-Psychic Depression)

2.11.15 KUTNER, S. Jerome, et al
Oral contraceptives, personaltly and changes in depression
Contraception 4/5: 327-336, November 1971

Preliminary analysis of the psychological data have been directed at two problems: (a) pre-pill characteristics, and (b) changes in depression. (#293)

*(#____) Acquisition & Order Number.

2.11.15 RIDDOCH, Donald, et al
Chorea and the oral contraceptives
British Medical Journal 4/5781:217-218, Oct. 23, 1971

The case histories are reported of six women who developed chorea while taking oral contracetpive drugs. Although the mechanism involved is not known, it seems difficult to escape the conclusion that oral contraception may play a part in the development in chorea. (#294)

Intrauterine Devices

2.12 ADEL, S.K., GHONEIM, M.A. and SOBRERO, A.J.

Difficult majzlin spring removals
Obstetrics & Gynecology 38/5: 653-659, November 1971

Report details experience with difficult spring removals and offers some suggestions for possibly improving the device. (#295)

DROBNY, Hernan, et al
Private practitioner acceptance of the IVD; and the IUD related to other contraceptives
Contraception 4/4: 267-276, October 1971

This study interviewed 26 private practitioners in depth as to their attitudes about contraception and thier knowledge about the IUD. The most effective source of information for these doctors was overwhelmingly from the drug company advertising men and other advertisements. (#296)

2.12 OSTERGARD, Donald R. and BROEN, E.M.

The Dalkon Shield: A clinical evaluation
Contraception 4/5: 313-317, Novermber 1971

The Dalkon Shield has been found to have expulsion and pregnancy rates of 1.02% and 1.06%, respectively, with a medical removal rate of 9.36% at the end of nine months as calculated by the Life Table method. No perforations occurred. Continued acceptability with prolonged usage is evident. (#297)

2.12 TATUM, Howard J.

Life History of the IUD

M.A.L.T.H.U.S. 1/2: 26-29, November 1971 (#298)

BC: EVALUATION & MEDICAL STATUS

2.14 Contraceptive effectiveness M.A.L.T.H.U.S. 1/2: 47, November 1971

Concepts to keep in mind when reviewing figures or statistics of contraceptive effectiveness are (1) Are the real figures theoretical or practical? (2) The length of time employed in measuring effectiveness. (3) There are different methods of fertility control. Does a single failure result in conception, or can this be overcome by subsequent measures? (#299)

KMD Acquisitions, January 1972, Articles & Pam.

Birth control: evaluation & medical status (continued)

MELTON, Robert 5. and SHELTON, James D.

Pill versus IUD: continuation rates of oral contraceptive and Dalkon

Shield users in Maryland clinics

Contraception 4/5: 319-326, November 1971

The continuation rate for Shield patients was 69.9% at 12 months as opposed to 55.4% for the pill patients. Two hypotheses for the difference in continuation are offered. Patients wanting a temporary contraceptive method may select orals; patients wanting a more permanent method may select the IUD. (#300)

BC: ABORTION

ADDELSON, Frances

Therapeutic abortion: a social work view

American Journal of Obstetrics & Gynecology 3/7: 984-992, December 1, 1971

The conscioulsy unwanted pregnancy is a complex medical-psychological-social condition. Clinical experience teaches that most women facing the problem of unwanted pregnancy can utilize crisis oriented, short-term casework or guidance depending on individual need. To make the crucial decision, whether to keep or place her child for adoption or to seek a medical abortion, in accordance with her most basic needs helps to support her self-esteem during and, when useful, after the crisis of unwanted pregnancy. (#301)

2.3 KOPELMAN, J. Joshua and DOUGLAS, Gordon W.

Abortion by resident physicians in a municipal hospital center

American Journal of Obstetrics & Gynecology 3/5: 666-671, Nov. 1, 1971

Abortion statistics, birth statistics and a review of significant complications of in-hospitals abortions for the period of July 1, 1970 through Feb. 28, 1971, at Bellevue Hospital, are presented. Comparisons are made with related data for the same period in 1968. (#302)

2.3 LOUNG, K.C., et al

Results in 1,000 cases of therapeutic abortion managed by vacuum aspiration

British Medical Journal 4/5785: 477-479, November 20, 1971

By setting up special clinics and an additional weekly operating session, the maximum delay from a request for termination of pregnancy to appointment is five days, and if operation is advised, from appointment to operation a further seven days.

2.3 PEARSON, J.F.

> Pilot study of single women requesting a legal abortion Journal of Biosocial Science 3: 417-448, 1971

> > In depth study of 11 unmarried women, pregnant for the first time and requesting a legal abortion at the Marie Stopes Clinic in London. The absence of a sanctioning social atmosphere and the presence of stigmas discouraged effective contraceptive practice. (#304)

2.3 Who gets abortions, how and when Medical World News 12/45: 52, December 3, 1971

> A Population Council study of 42,598 abortions done between mid-1970 and mid-1971 indicate that the most common patient is a young, single, white women, pregnant for the first time. (#305)

BC: STERILIZATION

2.4 BLACK, W.P.

Female Sterilization by laparoscopic tubal electrocoagulation: an assessment American Journal of Obstetrics & Gynecology 3/7: 979-983, Dec. 1, 1971

> Data about 300 patients sterilized at laparoscopy are presented. A critical approach to this operation is necessary to maintain its reputation of having the clinical benefits associated with minor operations although it is not a minor operation.

2.4 SAVAGE, Philip M.

Male An economic and efficient vasectomy program HSMHA Health Reports 86/8: 682-683, August 1971

One health department's clinical experience with vasectomy. (#307)

2.4 VAN NAGELL, J.R., Jr. and RODDICK, J.W., Jr. Female Vaginal hysterectomy s a sterilization procedure American Journal of Obstetrics & Gynecology 3/5: 703-707, Nov. 1, 1971

> Vaginal hysterectomy for sterilization was performed on 100 patients at the University of Kentucky Medical Center. It is concluded that this may well be the procedure of choice when surgical sterilization is desired by the indigent multipurous patient who is most susceptible to the future development of benign and malignant uterine disease and who probably will not return for adequate postoperative follow-up.

2.4 WALLACE, David M. and RIDDLE, Peter Male

Vasectomy

British Medical Journal 4/5779: 100-102, October 9, 1971

Vasectomy as a method of contraception.

Sickle controversies
Cell Medical World News 12/45: 37-47, December 3, 1971

Comprehensive article about the value of testing. The exclusiveness of sickle cell anemia to black persons has been the largest single hindrance to research, diagnosis and therapy. Clinical advances, however, are of little use unless the patients needing treatmetn can be indentified and/or voluntarily seek help. Thus, a comprehensive attack on sickle cell anemia must include mechanisms for screening public education. (#317)

Vital Statistics - Fertility

5.21 ERHARDT, Carl L., et al

Seasonal patterns of conception in New York City

American Journal of Public Health 61/11: 2246-2258, November 1971

This paper presents seasonal patterns of conception in New York City and discusses the implications of these patterns. It is intended to investigate variations by month of conception of factors associated with pregnancy. (#324)

5.21 VEEVERS, J. E.

Childlessness and age at first marriage
Social Biology 18/3: 292-295, September 1971

An examination of childlessness among a high fertility group of women reveals that when the influence of birth control is minimal, even women who marry for the first time in their early thirties have a very high probability of bearing at least one child. Comparable data for a low fertility group suggests that for those who marry before age 35, psychological disinclination to parenthood may be a major factor. (#325)

VEEVERS, J. E.

Differential childlessness by color: a further examination

Social Biology 18/3: 285-291, September 1971

Deals with three questions: How does the incidence of childlessness among whites and nonwhites vary among age cohorts? What causal factors may have contributed to the differential childlessness? What trends may be anticipated in the future? (#326)

Fert.

This paper deals with the 72 childless couples who during the last two years applied to the Association for Voluntary Sterilization for help in obtaining surgical sterilizations. It is hoped that detailed description of their characteristics will provide theoretical and research leads for further investigations of negative fertility attitudes. (#327)

Contraceptive practices among college women

Medical Aspects of Human Sexuality 5/2: 168ff, November 1971

A self-administered questionnaire was designed to obtain information regarding contraceptive practices, pregnancies, abortion, sexuality, and related information. While the modern coed may now feel more free to indulge in sexual relations, her ingnorance of contraception is appalling. (#329)

The impact of a liberalized abortion law on the medical schools

American Journal of Obstetrics & Gynecology 3/5: 728-735, November 1971

Pregnancy termination should most definitely be a required part of a residency program. All residents, even those who from personal conviction will not do abortions, should be trained in the technical procedures involved if they are to be fully trained.
